The Lull in Activity

By Adam and his 'Cs" and Kibo

Mar 17, 2010

Hi Everyone, first is a channeling by Adam. Good advice, and then following in response, one of Kibo's poetic essays. Enjoy!-C

March 15, 2010

Adam: I have felt a lull in activity in the past couple of days and I am kind of surprised that Jupiter has not been visible (some photos notwithstanding). Can you speak to that and also about where things stand now?

Cs: We can! Good evening.

As we told you, plans were and are still fluid. The Earth will work on her own schedule and her changes can no longer be calmed. In addition, an energy burst from your primary sun is already on its way. The actions of agents of the dark take place out of sight, though there is energetic impact (that some will sense). Some of them have been deciding which side of the fence to jump to and humans have sort of held their collective breath while that has gone on. Largely, their decisions have been made and the quaking will begin again right away. We still assert that time is up and the tipping point is imminent, dominoes will fall quickly on after another and no one will be able to deny truth any longer.

(short pause)

Adam: I have come close to losing faith in the last day or two. The possibility of all of this being a huge joke or trick has seemed more likely. Maybe all of the many stresses on me and mine are making faith more difficult, but I remind myself that there is no proof of any of it beyond vague predictions of increasing quakes and wild weather. Even my own channeling seems surreal when I'm not actually doing it. And then again I feel like I'm letting the whole universe down when my faith falters like that. Hopefully the need to go strictly on faith will pass very soon, bur for now it's a real struggle.

Cs: We understand and we do not take offense; too, you are letting down no one and nothing. Blind followers are not needed. Critical thinkers and skeptical but optimistic individuals are those who will serve best.

There are such mixed attitudes among those who wish to work for change and agents of the dark use those to keep agents of the light off-balance in the same way they use them to control the masses through major religions. It is not useful to expend too much energy worrying about the "right" attitude. Do question, do consider, do checkup. Give up your personal authority to no one. Disagreement is okay, for it can spark dialogue that might lead to greater understanding.

We ask you to continue to connect with us, to continue to support the light and to anticipate change. We do not ask you to act blindly or to simply follow along and shut down your mind. Your world has had more than enough of that.

Know also that you, each of you, has ideas about how things will be and what to expect - and that none of you have it right! It will be so much better! You have lived in limitation and degradation for so long that you can dare to hope only for so much and no more. Now and then you catch a tiny glimpse of what might be, but you shake yourself and admonish against "fantasizing" or "getting carried away" and then replace your noses firmly against your familiar grindstones. We cannot wait to show you what you might be! It is a thrilling thing for us.

To remove such darkness from existence and to see you rise up is without precedent and our joy and anticipation is indescribable. To communicate with even a handful of you in this state of being is a privilege and a joy that we cannot convey! That you worry about faltering faith in these final, pivotal moments is touching and heartening to us; that you do such profound work and yet are barely aware of it, that you go forward simply because you can and that you accept additional suffering in the process is dazzling to us.

You do not let us down. We are in awe of you.

That is all for now. Good night.

Kibo, as "channeled" by himself

wow uplifting
thanks!
and thanks, guys!
i dunno
i feel like you do anticipation
that's the thing that gets you works havoc on the mind
when they tell you how they're going to torture you until you talk....
makes the whole month of December
seem like a whole year
when you're a kid
waiting for Christmas...
it always kills me when they tell us how great we think we are like the guys in the trenches praising the guys in the foxholes while the rockets red glare and bombs bursting in air around all of us

heck
we wouldn't be this far along without support from central command
so i take a potshot
every now and then big deal
and forgive me if
according to my ammo box
by the time the final assault comes through our way
i could be tossing rocks
but that's okay because i know we're going to win
but every second in linear time seems like an eternity
and i can't help but count the seconds....
war does that to you.
every moment stands alone
until i realize another moment has taken its place...
especially between battles
i lay here in my foxhole waiting looking at the inches in front of me with a thousand mile stare.....
so here i am
behind enemy lines
in occupied territory
listening to Radio Free Earth
to the voice that tells us that victory is here
while the voice in my comm is telling me to hold on hold my ground
the entire force is headed my way
and i should notice
any moment now....
and it might be just a few seconds in real time
fluid time
but it feels like forever to me
so i press my heart against the dirt keep my eyes open
take a shot at anything that moves across the line
keep my head down
and wait.....
reminding myself that i volunteered for this looking for that big flare

and our ships in the sky
that will tell me
our guys have arrived and it's on
We're gonna get it done for good.....
enough for now
love and light to all
I AM
this one
THAT I AM

A Redundant Message? asks Adam

By Adam and "Cs"

Mar 17, 2010

This message seems redundant, but I thought I would share it anyway.

-Adam.

March 13, 2010

Adam: Good evening. I've read a lot of channeled messages in the past few days. I hesitate even to ask because I know the answer I want to hear (I think) ... is it all true?

Cs: Yes! No turning back. Quakes, slipping fault lines, realignment of tectonic plates, volcanic activity and more. And of course your system's secondary sun, formerly known as Jupiter.

You think you are prepared and that you will not be shocked and frightened; but hear us when we tell you this: the enormity of the destruction and chaos that is to come will leave no one composed and calm. Do all you can to center yourself and feel what you feel. Do not deny it, but do not bathe in it. Let it pass though. If you lose your center you will be less able to help others cope. Gather about you others who can cope. Remember these words. Whatever else you are, you are human too and the suffering and shock of others, no matter how temporary, will grieve and affright you. Expect it. But we know you can cope or you would not be here nor would you hear us now.

Adam: Thank you. I'll do my best. Are there any logistical or practical things I should know or expect?

Cs: There may be some power interruptions and other services may be unreliable, be we and the ships will do what we can to help. If things get too out-of-hand you will be removed from the surface. (I take "you" to mean light workers in general. -Adam) However, the public will be informed as much as possible and we hope to keep things relatively calm before stasis.

Though there will be upheaval, it will not be total. Much of it will be political and social and then it will be spiritual. Most of the casualties simply will not wake up from stasis, though quakes and tsunamis will take some. The sequence of events is still fluid, but contingency plans are all-encompassing.

At this time attempting to go into any greater detail is moot. Though you are more patient than you used to be, we know you don't care to hear, "wait and see," but that is what we say to you now. Take note, however that there is very little "wait" left and plenty of "see" right around the corner.

That's all for now. Good night.

Rowdy Toddlers and Bulls in China Shops

By Celestials and Adam

Mar 26, 2010

Rowdy Toddlers and Bulls in China Shops:

Through Adam
24 March 2010

Adam: So okay - a lot of people are frustrated and upset. Suffering continues. Faith is shaky. I personally know some who are now homeless. Jupiter may not show up now. Wild weather, quakes and volcanoes are on the increase. I still feel convinced that everything is about to change, but I couldn't express why I feel that way.

I can see that part of this is a chance for us to learn just a little more before the big shift, but it's getting more and more uncomfortable and even painful being here. I feel like a lobster in a pot and the water is getting pretty damn hot. Can you tell me what's up?

Celestials: Yes! We are here.

We hear your words and we hear all the prayers for relief from people everywhere on your globe. To continue your metaphor, we know the water is getting hot in part because we have turned up the heat; not to increase suffering as such, but because a little bit of testing and tempering is still to be done. Remember that on a soul-level you continue to agree to the trials inherent in life on Earth.

That said, suffering is suffering and we have no desire to see it continue. Your physical universe is set up to run like a vast clockworks, ticking away and behaving in predictable ways. But as terrestrial humanity becomes more conscious, the less predictable the mechanism becomes. Aware humans affect the works on a quantum level which then sends echoes onto the more physical planes.

Some terrestrials are becoming more conscious but have not yet learned to harmonize their emerging energies with the rest of creation. They are like bulls in china shops and these constant ripples in quantum fields change conditions from moment to moment, making optimum conditions for stasis and change more elusive.

Imagine a room full of rowdy toddlers, for that is an apt comparison. Imagine trying to get them all settled down and focused on one activity. And these are the lightworkers! The rest of the terrestrial humans have comparatively little impact and if there were few or no aware people on Earth, all of this would have been much easier to accomplish.

Now, even these quantum ripples can only stall events for so long and the physical universe is still mostly clockworks. Change is inevitable and these much-anticipated shifts must occur. The divergent possibilities are fewer and fewer as time goes on and there is a tipping point. Yes, it must happen "soon." We cannot say that such-and-such event will happen at such-and-such time. Quantum ripples. But there will be unmistakable signs that change has begun and you will not be able to miss the beginning of the process.

Be aware also that some lightworkers have reached their limits and the burden of living in such low frequencies among so much suffering has damaged them. A few of those who are more aware have actually snapped and their mental health has suffered. Some of the ones you have labeled "batshit crazy" are among them. This stress is now considered a major factor in the timing of the coming changes.

For this reason and countless others, time is essentially up. We must ask you again for a little bit more patience.

You can receive no more tonight. We can talk again tomorrow if you wish.

Releasing old energy and embracing new energy

Thru Adam

3 April 2010

Adam: Good evening. Do you have a message for me tonight?

Celestials: Yes! We are here.

Not so much a message as before. We have said over and over to have patience and you have! Though you have felt unpleasant emotional upheaval, and despite worries to the contrary, you have continued to have faith. Though you have invested hopes and desires on specific chains of events and specific outcomes, you have finally begun to release your need to know exactly how events will unfold.

By releasing these fears and concerns, you move closer to higher frequencies and farther from the ennui and pain that mark life in physical duality. Through this process of release, you facilitate the ascension process of the Earth and her peoples. Through this process, you begin to let go of your attachment, what you might term your "death-grip" on the old ways and the old energy.

Even though many on Earth wish to move forward and have transformation, there is in every one of you a foundation of fear-of-change that is part and parcel of your lives. It is simply a fact of life; an outgrowth of instincts and drives that once allowed all the species of mankind to rise and thrive. No matter how advanced and enlightened, each terrestrial human has a biological, animal nature as well as a spiritual nature; to begin to overcome some of these instincts is a marvel indeed!

Those who remain on your world after the transformation must evolve past their most primitive fear-based instincts and embrace the willingness to release obsolete neural pathways and DNA sequences in order to embrace new ones. Lightworkers have reached a tipping point now where this is much more likely. The collective mind has integrated this idea more fully and has 'upgraded' or become more perfect. This is a significant step on the path!

It is difficult to express the significance of this concept, although this change may help you to understand why (in part) standards have seemingly been relaxed to allow those with only 51% of cleared karma to remain after stasis and transformation. This upgrade will allow a greater potential for individuals to evolve through those limitations! A significant obstacle to that potential has been mitigated.

It may be difficult for you to see the importance of this energy now, but if you pay attention you are likely to see visible evidence of it as time goes on.

That is all for now. Good night.

Messages through Adam

26 February 2010.

"All but gone are the days when possessions and schedules and meaningless toil are that for which humans of the Earth are admired and it is all the better for you that you have already jettisoned such attitudes. The skills you employ instead are now and will be far more important and substantial.

Difficult and uncertain days are ahead; this you know, but be ready to help hold up the people around you. They will take their cues from you in large part. Your confidence will inspire confidence in others and all the strength and courage that can be found will be needed as the humans see their social structures dissolve around them. They will be adrift, in need of lighthouses to guide them.

Behind the scenes there is already a measure of panic and even terror. As those who walk in darkness fall away, the average citizen will be terrified and flailing desperately for something to hang their hopes upon. The task of the lighthouses will not be to replace the fallen leaders (in the same old structure), but to inspire the humans to find that new framework within - in their personal connection with the Light and the Source; to "put on their big-boy boots" and stand.

Those who remain must not seek new masters to follow. Those days are over. Each human is a master and must take responsibility for all that is. Those who are incapable will move on to other realms where they can continue their evolution in divine right time.

Teachers are needed and you (lightworkers in general) will have much meaningful work to occupy you. Useless toil for no real reward will be no more. Remember this through the chaotic time and remind others as well.

For now, this is our message. And such a message it is! Of importance you cannot yet appreciate.

Good night."

March 2, 2010

Adam: Do you have anything to discuss with me tonight?

Cs: Indeed, there is always something to be said.

More than a few dark souls are considering the offers from C333, through Vince and from Michael through Candace. Always ones to hedge their bets, though, they will mostly wait until the last minute to act. But regardless of their individual decisions, events move forward.

Some of the people you know will continue with the Earth to watch and experience her increased vibration; but many will not. They have procured other assignments or will go elsewhere to continue their evolution. You need not worry about the details, for all will be exactly and only what it should be.

Adam: I'm sorry, I'm suddenly very tired. Tomorrow?

March 3, 2010

Adam: Is there anything more tonight?

Cs: Good evening! I hope we are not too cheery tonight! Just kidding. (smile)

The Pacific Rim quakes will intensify and soon many will begin to become quite alarmed. As events unfold, all eyes will watch for new developments and so the appearance of your secondary star will likely draw more immediate attention than it might have otherwise.

At present there are no scheduled delays and events proceed apace. In fact, the frequency of the Chile quakes was somewhat underestimated by those offworld whose task it is to monitor and predict this activity; but all plans are ready to go on a moment's notice and so there is no worry.

The emotional trauma that accompanies disaster is a sadly necessary experience that will lead to growth for those who suffer it; take heart that upheaval on this scale will soon cease, not to be repeated. (Adam: I take this to mean that all the geological upheaval is a temporary thing and after some restructuring on Earth, after stasis, the planet will be much calmer.)

Adam: Thank you. Can you comment about the possible terraforming of Venus and Mars? And what about Maldek/Bellona/Pax?

Cs: Yes, a good question.

Do not misunderstand - these planets are not being altered merely for the convenience of Terrestrials! This is an old-energy way of thinking. Rather, understand that these worlds benefit from the presence of conscious life and will be quite willing to share this evolutionary path with conscious humans. The entity that is Mars misses his former inhabitants, in his own way, and is eager to try again. Venus is also willing, though not quite as anxious or anticipatory.

The fifth planet, now a field of asteroids, will be a bigger job since life grids and complex energy fields must be formed anew and not just the stone and elements of the former globe brought back together. There exists a version of this world in other frequency levels and that will make such a thing possible.

The story of how and why this star/planet system became damaged and will be restored is epic; it is covered by published and electronic documents and is for too complex to detail again here. For now, let us simply say that the beauty and purity of these worlds will be restored and Earth shall indeed function again as a seed planet. She will help to spread abundant life far and wide, beginning with her sibling orbs. A glorious destiny awaits Earth and her partners! You will be very glad you chose to participate in this project all those years ago. Such stories you will have to tell!

That's all for now. Good night.

March 4, 2010

Adam: Three nights in a row - unusual for me. Do you have anything to tell me tonight?

Cs: With events accelerating, there will be plenty to tell. Tonight, however mostly just "stay the course". (Adam: this is a sly dig at former President Bush's famous slogan, but I think it's going over my head.)

You have felt some shifting in the ambient energy; this is a narrowing of possibilities. The possible pathways in front of you are fewer and some of the remaining paths re-merge a short distance "downstream". A sort of a bottleneck of potentials, to mix some metaphors. The details aren't very important at the level on which you are conscious, but this will explain some of the subtle perceptions you are experiencing. Unless you have questions, that's all for now.

Adam: No questions right now, thanks.

Cs: Good night.

Perceived Separations

By Celestials thru Adam

Apr 11, 2010

Adam

Message from the Celestials through Adam: Perceived Separations

8 April 2010

Celestials: It is of note that reports of acts of blind, unreasonable anger seem to have surfaced in greater numbers recently. The energy reaching the Earth has increased in intensity and frequency, creating greater physical and emotional stress on those who are not individually ensouled and those who refuse to release their hold on the old, lower energy and way of life. Since that old energy doesn't really exist anymore, they are adrift and untethered. Like flocks of birds that get lost during their migration, these people can no longer find their old guideposts and pathways. For many, leaving the Earth either in body or out of body will be a great relief and their new worlds will be so much more suitable.

All lightworkers have friends and family who will not continue on the new Earth and all lightworkers who are aware of the coming changes feel some measure of fear and regret at this perceived loss. We remind those lightworkers that such loss is really an illusion and an impermanent one at that. Once reunited, you will all have such grand adventures to share with each other! Eternity lies before you; these perceived separations will be only a blink of an eye next to that.

That's all for now. Good night.

Four Abundant Worlds

Message through Adam with his celestials.

This came in last night. I was expecting a message about the immanent Earth changes and such, but a completely different topic came up instead.

(Candace: and a nice relevant message it is, because we have covered before that this solar system is going to be restored. Many solar systems have several and some times MANY life bearing planets, depending on the size of the sun and other forces at work.

Eventually there will little planets with life around Sun Jupiter also. We have much to look forward to and we will be a part of this, as that is HOW teaching occurs about creation, best by participation in the actions. I was looking for my Urantia Book, can't find it, but regards the main Nebula that became Nabadon (there were more than one), there is a large sun that has well over 100 evolutionary life bearing planets. This is something I can talk about in another piece I need to get back too, after I find my UB. but anyway Adam it nice to have a piece about the glories ahead instead of just the necessary destruction that must occur to rebuild.)

Message through Adam
15 April 2010
Four Abundant Worlds

Adam: Hello; is there a message tonight?

Celestials: Yes, we are here!

Tonight we wish to discuss with you your solar system. Let it be known that you live on a world that was intended to be one of a set; a community of local worlds connected by common cultures, goals and dominant human races. Your system was conceived to house four life-abundant green worlds and that your interactions with each other would prepare you for eventual life in the galactic community. Alas, rebellion and subsequent outside interference left only one populated world, two devastated and one destroyed. Your world was isolated and left alone. You never had to learn to be a part of an interplanetary community and never learned to pull together and be a unified world, a unified people. Many lessons were lost to you.

But even now steps are being taken to revive the other three and one day in the near future four inner worlds, abundant and lush, will circle your primary sun. These worlds will need leadership and some of those physical leaders will likely come from among the lightworkers of Earth; likely from organizations spawned by what is now Abundant Hope.

You wonder why this message at this time when so much change is so near - as well you might. (smile)

Know that the groundwork for the establishment of these worlds is being prepared even as the groundwork for Earth Changes begins to bear fruit. Perhaps this message will even reach the eyes of one or more of those who will contribute significantly to these projects. (wink and smirk)

This brief message is all we have for you tonight, but be prepared for additional information at any time.

Good night

Science Fiction and Rapid Change

Message through Adam by the Celestials

Adam: I'm ready if there is a message.

Celestials: Yes, we are here.

Know that the terms we use when we speak with you are rough approximations and translations designed to invoke ideas and images that resonate for the most people. We take advantage of words and ideas that have already become a part of your culture, much of it from what you call "science fiction." And too, some of the most enduring of these ideas are not entirely fictional. Some were divinely inspired and some were imparted more directly. Of course the stories around these concepts must interest people or they will not catch on and become part of your collective consciousness, so the conflicts and details of these stories should not be taken too seriously, but some of the underlying themes are worth pondering.

The introduction of these concepts has been greatly accelerated on your world because of the urgent nature of this mission. Ordinarily this would be a centuries-long process rather than a decades-long one. As a result your culture changes so rapidly that you are constantly off-balance and traditions are routinely abandoned in favor of the new and different.

However, this too serves the plans of Heaven. These rapid changes in thinking have helped to prevent the dark ones from taking even more control than they already have. When traditions are followed blindly and new concepts are rare, human imagination is stunted and consciousness slumbers more deeply. It is not coincidental, therefore, that the last century has seen more change and innovation than the previous 10,000 years or more. This is an idea worth pondering, with far-reaching implications. After all, the chaos of the last decades has served the dark, but perhaps it has served the light even more?

The dark ones are clever, but they see things in terms of immediate personal gratification and short-term goals for the most part whereas the light ones look toward the long-term. The plans of the light have depth and breadth the dark can never know or conceive and that is why the dark could never have prevailed in the end.

It seems to you that this message is incomplete, has wandered off topic and meandered down unrelated paths, but it is not so. Give it some thought.

That is all for now. Good night.

The Sorting

The Sorting

25 April 2010

Adam: I'm here if there is a message.

Celestials: We are here!

Tonight we have not so much a prepared message for you as an addressing of your fears.

We know you are anxious and not entirely given to trusting the messages that the time is now. After all, it's been five years since you heard NESARA was "imminent" and you now know that America's president was ready to announce first contact in 1963, some forty-seven years ago.

We can tell you plans are less fluid now. We can tell you that Earth changes are already underway. We can tell you that options are few. But still you wonder, "what is the holdup?" As well you might.

It is no longer about converting dark ones. First contact will probably wait until after the stasis event. The Earth must now have her way. Likely a very big seismic event will be triggered within days on the Pacific Rim which will have a cascade effect, causing seismic events all over the globe all within a very short time period. Of course, great confusion and panic will immediately erupt, though people in stricken areas will probably not know about the events outside of their immediate areas.

Those in relatively unaffected areas will most likely see reports of disasters coming one after another and will become very frightened indeed. This shock to mass consciousness will trigger the effect which might be termed "the sorting," and the departures of some of the people who are not killed in disasters will begin; the general results of this sorting have already been made known to you.

The experience of the sorting will be unlike anything else and those with eyes to see, ears to hear and souls to feel will be unable to mistake it for anything other than what it is.

That is all for now. Good night.

(Note by Adam: the transmission included a visual/audio/sensation experience that the sorting time will feel very much like slipping into deep water, without all the unfortunate drowning and gasping for air of course: sounds becoming muted, sights becoming distant and a feeling of peace and wellbeing coming over us as we drift into an unaffected state.)

Getting Serious

Getting Serious

Message by the Celestials through Adam
2 May 2010

Adam: Is there a message tonight?

Celestials: Yes. We are here.

Some of you are wondering why "nothing" has happened yet. You have begun to become acclimated to a world in turmoil - volcanoes, quakes, oil spills, war unstable weather, corruption, torture and all manner of human evil. Truly it is amazing what Terrestrials can endure. But the other side of that coin is apathy. We say to you to stand back and look at the big picture. Much is happening - and there is more every day.

Remember that your own suffering is not the only suffering; find your way out of the state of apathy that lets you ignore the rest of the world. The distance from each other born of this apathy is one of the most important things that must change on your world as you evolve.

We understand that you are impatient to move forward and that you are chafing under your restraints, but remain in gratitude for the blessings in your lives and remember your compassion for those in the quake zones, in the path of oil spills and life-threatening weather, those who are direct targets of the dark ones; even programmed clones and unaware robotics are worthy of your compassion. Even the dark ones themselves deserve your compassion and even your pity.

Do not let your eagerness to reach a critical point of change lead you to forget that you are lightworkers. Do not revel in the possibility of great destruction, seeing only that it will lead to change. Do not ignore the fear and upset of those who are not awake. Remember the tasks before you and be in the moment.

So many forces have been set in motion! If you could be consciously aware of it all you would be stunned into stuporous silence at the spectacle. But the course of these forces is for others to monitor or maintain. Tend to your own tasks and trust others to tend to theirs.

You have been taught by experience that you can seldom trust others to follow through, but you must now let that go and trust in us.

The tone of this message is more serious and even "harsh" than those before. This will be the norm henceforth. You lightworkers will be stepping up in earnest very soon and it's time to be serious. There will not be much more teaching along these lines because it is now time to act.

That is all for now. Good night.

Candace: Don't forget the weather changes that are becoming increasingly common. Today for example as I watch the morning news, most of the eastern coast of the United States is under flood watch today. Areas around Nashville Tennessee are deeply flooded with huge water problems. Yesterday a hospital basement floor began cracking and a lot of water was being forced up through the cracks. Nashville is in great danger because there is a weak leaking dam above it and if that dam goes, Nashville will be under 20 feet of water.

California faces a horrid problem if even a quake somewhere in the San Francisco area, takes down some levies, which are weak and leaking. Millions will suddenly be out of fresh water. I saw this on a program on TV. Most places in this country have really old drainage and sewer systems. there will be increased failure of these. Boston has just suffered a rupture of the 10 FOOT water main.

Then we have our stupid thugs dreaming up more false flags, like that "car bomb" that wasn't, set up in New York. This story just RANG of false flag. The thugs didn't intend to blow it up, that is why they made it "smoke" so it would be discovered unfinished and thus produce a huge fear story of attacks within.

I posted a list yesterday somebody on GLP compiled of events since the beginning of December and there were stuff not on it of important. We are undergoing much change in all arena's right now.

There was another oil rig toppled along the coast of Louisiana too. This oil situation in the Gulf of Mexico is being blamed on BP. Well I am sure some of it is, they drilled too deep into HIGH PRESSURE Oil, so of course there is equipment failure. There was sea bed movement that occurred also causing some of these leaks and which damaged their pipes along the sea floor. These drilling rigs often have many miles of pipe going between multiple wells. there are likely to be increasing breaks in these from sea bed movement.

Don't forget sea bed movement is increasing all over the planet and will likely disrupt more oil and gas wells. There was a major similar circumstance off Thailand or thereabouts a year or more ago. I didn't take notes on that from where I read it. It would be good for all of you to keep reading at www.godlikeproductions.com (GLP) because all sorts of stuff of this nature gets posted there. People on GLP just love their "doom."

Much shows up there that does not show up on my US of A TV. I don't know what the rest of the world sees, but since GLP has readers all over the world, they post this stuff. Somebody there even runs a thread on bad weather around the world.

This website carries all sorts of natural disasters around the world.

<http://hisz.rsoe.hu/alertmap/index2.php>

Remember as above, ALL the people who are and will suffer in this world. Remember the animals and plants that will be affected. This has been my "habit" for which I get blasted regularly, since I was a little girl first able to look at the National Geographics at my grandmother's house. She had the complete collection at that time, back to the first edition. It was a much better magazine when I was little than now.

I was often bashed all my growing years and I still am, for my concern about the whole world. I was bashed hugely in high school and college about my worry of how our cars are fueled and the resultant pollution. I graduated high school in 1965. Stand your ground and get bashed, sometimes people learn. If not learning NOW, they will remember your stand when the time comes. You don't have to be nasty and in their faces, just stand your ground and make your statements when opportunity presents and ignore the rolling eyeballs. Also demonstrate your convictions by your actions. Walk your talk. In the end, you will be vindicated and some are going to come around and help.

Message by the Celestials through Adam
8 May 2010

Adam: Good evening. Is there a message?

Celestials: Yes! We are here and we have some news.

The dark ones are being routed and are on the run. Some have tried to extract cash and jet off to places they can hide out. Of course there is nowhere for them to hide and though they know that they try anyway. Well, they have found that most of their wealth (former wealth) is of little value or has been frozen or moved. There is no cash available to them!

Also, they are going nowhere. They will just have to sit still and take their medicine. What this means is that your global financial system has begun to collapse. Think of a house of cards that has begun to tremble and fall from the top down. For a short while, money will not exist, in essence. But remember there are "white knights" to take up the reins and recreate your economy in short order. Of course, geological change has also begun and much depends on that as well.

A great deal of upset and fear will be everywhere but we are confident that lightworkers will do their best to calm others. In any event, it cannot last too long before stasis must be initiated. There may be refuges, so be prepared to work with them. The west coastal states and parts of Nevada and Arizona may begin to empty before the worst happens. Keep your wits about you and do not become distracted by the devastation. That's all for now. Good night.

((Adam: there was some idea coming through of potential suicides when the information about the dark ones came through but I lost that thread. It all seemed to be coming in faster than usual and I was sleepy. Also, the words "white knights" were given very specifically and I remember something about white nights when I used to read the NESARA material, but that was a while ago. Maybe there is a connection there.))

Candace: Interesting the White Knights here, because I picked a video link off of GLP this week from MSNBC news I think it was which had White Knights and financial reform, in the information panel on the show, but the short 5 minutes of the video discussed nothing, and

I bookmarked another longer video to of the same broadcast to view later, which I will try to remember to do today. This is the link to the shorter video if you wish to look.

<http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=6ojbOd4HPVc&feature=related>

Also on GLP, some are discussing that there are little new paper money on the market. I never ask for new bills or look at them much, so I really don't know.

Understanding the Dark

15 May 2010

Adam: I am ready if there is a message.

Celestials: Finally!

We are here, too.

An eventful day it has been! Much has been unleashed upon the dark ones, with more to come.

This idea of "dark ones" is not fully understood. It is true that most souls who incarnate on Earth experience lifetimes of wickedness and selfishness; sometimes much worse than that. But this is part of evolution of the soul in duality. You yourself were once a brutal and merciless warrior in Asia and much feared. Your experiences during that lifetime taught you a great deal about compassion and the pain and loneliness of serving the dark; you learned to turn away from it and why you should turn away from it. Many lightworkers have learned similarly.

But these dark ones who have had your world in a stranglehold have not learned. They have returned over and over, sinking more and more deeply into the abyss. What do you think happens to someone who makes that choice time after time? The word "insane" is quite inadequate. The corruption and rot are indescribable. Were you to see inside the mind of one of these you would be profoundly damaged.

When it was decided that the experiment in duality would come to a close these dark ones balked at the idea of giving up their power. They had become so attached to the meager rewards of cruelty and petty power that they did not even remember how to be any other way. Fear and pain were what had come to sustain them. They ceased even the pretense that they might evolve.

These warnings to stand down have not been given only on the physical level, but on the soul-level; their core selves have been directly warned as well. But they are either unwilling or unable to hear. Or perhaps they have so completely given themselves to evil that they do not care.

This is why you have been urged to regard them with compassion. These beings are so profoundly damaged and diseased that there are literally no words to convey it. Their removal and incarceration are less about punishment than about rehabilitation. After a very long time and a great deal of work some of them may be able to return to the path of evolution. Some will have to be uncreated. And some are so broken that they may be beyond help. They may simply wither and unravel; dispersing into nothingness.

We tell you this so that you may understand that, although your liberation will be joyful and the removal of these ones is right and good, to hate them and long for their punishment and humiliation is to become like them, if only a little bit.

How can any punishment be worse than what they have already done to themselves?
That's all for now. Good night.

The Importance of a Good Harvest

July 5 and 6, 2010

July 5

Adam: Checking in as ordered.

Esu: I am glad you are getting into the habit of regular contact.

Well, I know what has been going on at Abundant Hope and I see you have questions along those lines, so let's go.

Stasis will begin when it begins and Christ Michael will determine that. So much has happened in the last few years and plans have been altered and tweaked many times, each time with the goal of awakening more people before it is too late. It is not enough that starseeds and non-mortals awaken. If this is to be a viable seed world, its fruit must be of good kind, hearty and with great potential; and it is, but we need the harvest to be as robust as possible. We seem to be rapidly approaching a point of diminishing returns as most people won't awaken significantly no matter what comes at them, but there is still a significant number who can benefit - and we want every possible one of them. Time is limited, yes, though I cannot give you specifics on that, as you know.

As always, we encourage you all to make the most of the time you have remaining at this level. There are lessons to be learnt here that can be found nowhere else and we want to encourage you to take advantage of any remaining opportunities even if your conscious minds want nothing further to do with any of it.

Ponder this for now and we will talk more about this tomorrow.

Good night.

July 6

Adam: Can we continue the topic from last night?

Esu: I am here and yes we can.

We are aware that the limits of faith for many are being well-tested at this point; this is by design. Oh, it is not all of the design or even a large part of the design. Perhaps it is more correct to say it is an effect of the design.

You lightworkers who are ground crew are holding the energy pattern of outrage over the events in the Gulf of Mexico. The population in general might not otherwise be able to maintain their focus on these events; it is the habit of Earth people to grow weary and accustomed to appalling events and situations but that is not happening this time. Oh, how angry and confused the darkest ones are! Their time-tested strategies are failing them and they lack the clarity and flexibility at this time to adapt. This situation is not going to be so easily pushed aside by the usual distractions.

The issue of timing has also been much discussed by the ground crew. We are not insensitive to this, and in fact we weary of all the delays as well. The Creator Son has reasons for every movement and keeps some of these reasons to himself.

However, as I said to you last night He wants to have harvested all he can when the clock has fully run out. The more true individuals formed on and harvested from Earth the better for all of creation. The specific reasons for this are extremely complex from your current point of view, but I think you can conceive that this is a case of "more is better." The quality of your education and especially the education of those who evolve on Earth and then go on to ascend is of absolutely vital importance to His plan and, by extension, to the plans of Creator Source.

He knows that you are all very tired and that is a very significant factor in His plans. But understand that the potential gains from this project are much more than expected even a few years ago. The diversity and intensity of experience that has been available on Earth is unparalleled. Yes, we are aware that much of that experience is quite painful and I will not shovel platitudes about how lucky you are to have this opportunity; you already know that.

We also know that many lightworkers have seemingly snapped under the strain of KNOWING but feeling unable to create meaningful change. We will help those brave ones, make no mistake, for though some may seem to have become dark, it is more that they are confused. The Creator Son does not wish to see any more lightworkers damaged.

The question uppermost on your mind is "when." Understand that we do not hold this against you or find this attitude to be impertinent. I do not know exactly when stasis or other major events will occur. However, I will say that some relief is on its way. Some of the emotional and spiritual pressure will ease and there will be some more clarity as well as clearer contact with the divine. Grit your teeth and hang for just a bit for that.

That's all I have for you right now. Continue daily contact and brace yourself! (Adam: here I have an image of being on a roller coaster and reaching the top of a peak in the track, just before plummeting down the other side.)

Good night.
(wink, smile)

Message by Esu through Adam

Adam: Checking in. Is there a message?

Esu: Yes, I am here. Good evening, Adam!

Well, there is some news: Christ Michael no longer sees reason to wait. The ships are making final preparations for liftoffs and transportation to other worlds, etc. The Gulf situation, specifically repercussions of a methane release, will make Earth pretty unlivable for some time to come if allowed to run its course. C.M. will decide the exact moment of action, of course, but there is little left to be gained by waiting much longer.

It is worth noting at this point that although we have been "waiting" for stasis / first contact / governmental changes / Earth changes, etc., much has occurred and nothing has been really standing still. There has been a great deal of activity.

You wonder how long and "when is soon," etc., as you have before. You know I have no date and time for you, but Earth herself is being strongly encouraged to move her timetable along and events will be coordinated partially around that.

To continue waiting now is likely to diminish the light in some ways, not grow it. The tipping point is here.

Expect to find yourself shipboard quite suddenly and quite soon. Do not be concerned with the destination and disposition of others, for all such decisions have been made and our job does not include this aspect of the sorting and harvest. You will be given specific information as events warrant and plans unfold.

That's all for now.

Good night.

Candace: This gulf event to come is far more dangerous and worrisome than the other quakes that could manifest. The issue is the potential dangerous poisoning that could occur to life prior to stasis from it. So there is a balance being observed as to when best to go into stasis with this. While the quakes and any resultant tsunami's from the possibilities in California, and in the Pacific Rim off the Tonga Trench, will cause great loss of life, they will not affect the health of the atmosphere of the planet. Environmentally the gulf situation is far more dangerous and catastrophic and I am informed as fleet watches and studies this, the whole of the gulf sea floor is deteriorating very rapidly and rather surprisingly also. This was not anticipated a couple months go.

Judgement Day

Christ Michael through Adam
August 8, 2010

Adam -- I feel called. Is there a message?

Christ Michael -- There is.

I have called you to tell you this: the dark ones have exhausted my patience and they will be reined-in. This Drama has continued far beyond any usefulness. The Earth shall begin her cleansing. The Gulf of Mexico shall shortly bubble over and Florida will be no more. This will be the beginning. The time has come. No more will the darkness have sway over the Earth.

Adam -- I understand. One question, though: shouldn't this message be coming through a more senior member of Abundant Hope?

Christ Michael -- This message will be given through multiple channels as a verification of authenticity.

Adam -- Ok, thank you. Is there anything else?

Christ Michael -- This is enough. You may entitle this message, "Judgement Day." That is all.

(Adam -- there was an impatient, irritated tone to this message that came through more clearly than anything else.)

Candace: This is real regards Florida, I attended a meeting on ship a couple weeks ago now, I am estimating and I remembered it all night long, constant repeating of the same Florida dream over and over, as I kept waking frequently. I did verify with CM on this message, about posting it.

People are to become stewards of the divine spark that exists in all things.

By S333 thru Adam and Esu thru Adam

31 August 2010

David S333 through Adam

Adam: Checking in.

David S333: Good evening, Adam. I am here.

I am here to discuss with you tonight a third aspect of this battle in which we are engaged. The geophysical and socio-political-economic aspects have been given much attention because they are more easily quantifiable and immediately evident than the spiritual aspect.

Of course lightworkers are aware of this third aspect, but most only consider it in a cursory way or as a reflection of the other two aspects. Generally, lightworkers are not aware of this tendency and it is very easy to be distracted in this way. The geophysical and political seem much more immediate on an everyday basis.

But the spiritual needs some attention as well. This project isn't all about renewing the surface of the Earth and making sure the bad guys get what's coming to them and riding in ships or going to live in crystal cities. These things are incidental to the spiritual evolution underway.

Terrestrial humanity is being tasked with becoming more than physical shells containing a spark of life. People are to become stewards of the divine spark that exists in all things. People, as beings created with free will, are being handed this stewardship that they may create!

Reality is a gigantic clockworks of a sort - the forces of nature do not have free will. Gravity cannot decide on its own one day to reverse itself. An apple tree cannot decide to bear walnuts. The energies and beings you call angels and fairies and devas have their functions and can be nothing else.

But people - people can create! People can potentially become entire universes unto themselves. A person can decide to be more than what he is - or less. In the hands of people, reality itself can become something greater than every before conceived.

There is no language that you have that can convey even the shadow of this idea adequately; suffice it to say that this transition is all about giving Terrestrial humanity some actual responsibility and stewardship in the grand scheme of things.

And do not imagine that in all the systems in all the galaxies in all of creation that the people of Earth are the only ones involved. Oh no! This project is underway in all places in one way or another. Events on Earth are tied to events everywhere across space and even time on a quantum level. Again, there is no way to adequately explain this; it can only be accepted for what it is. If you contemplate this idea you will come to see truth in it.

The scope and breadth of this project, even the portion of it specific to Earth, is beyond comprehension to people and even daunting to those in higher frequencies. We all have our parts to play and we (yes, even celestials) must trust that the overall plan is being administered as it should be. We can only be concerned with our own area of responsibility. An actor on a stage must focus on his part and trust that the lighting, direction, costuming and other aspects of the play are being attended to, and by the same token we must focus on our own performances as well.

There are many beings incarnate on Earth and not-incarnate "near" Earth who are from many other realms. Not only planets in the Pleiades or Sirius systems, but realms that are completely non-human. There are entities living as humans, believing themselves to be completely human, who are fragments or aspects of the creative forces of all reality. There are people who have been deities and dragons (Adam: this is NOT a reference to giant lizards!) who are here to fulfill roles great and small or here only to observe and experience and ultimately to share those experiences in their realms.

The Mother of Stars and Father of Life itself has aspects and fragments incarnate in human form upon your world!

These entities bring untold riches of knowledge and power into the collective consciousness of Terrestrial humanity. Imagine the sacrifice and the glory of such a thing!

I bring this to you now so that you may see the importance of the project, the scope of the project and see that there is so much more going on than you realize. This project will transform all of existence, in all its aspects and permutations. Duality and physicality as you know it are to evolve and grow into something else, something greater.

You are on the cusp of an important but preliminary step on that path of evolution. Each of you reading this message is an incalculably important part of the whole, indispensable and unique. Though you feel tired and worn, you have not even begun to tap into the depth of your resources. The defeat of the dark, to which most of you look forward as a goal or endpoint, is just a milestone on a long and winding path! So much wonder awaits!

When you find your strength at low ebb and you feel discouraged, remember these words.

Blessed be.

30 August 2010
Esu Through Adam

Adam: Checking in.

Esu: Good evening, Adam!

You have noticed some energies changing and becoming "unstuck" around you. Some long-standing difficulties have suddenly evaporated. It seems as though stillness has given way and some events have broken loose, running forward quickly, as though making up for lost time.

This trend will be noticeable in many ways, seemingly unrelated, and will extend even to global events. Part of this is about tying up loose ends in preparation for moving on to other actions and ways of being. Another part is about releasing ideas and motivations that are suddenly obsolete or unimportant. Part of this energy is about co-creating a less dramatic and complicated system of living. This is the beginning - the leading edge of a different perspective and a different way of being.

Continuing to remain with Earth after stasis and related frequency changes will require such new ways of thinking, being and perceiving.

This change could be considered an early step in the final series of transformations - harbinger of things to come; to come almost immediately, in fact.

Those of the dark and those robotoids or underdeveloped humans who experience this change will find it chaotic, unpleasant and dangerous; those who are ready will ride the wave into the future.

That is all. Good night.

Few are Awakening

By Esu and CM thru Adam

Sep 13, 2010

Message through Adam
Esu and Christ Michael
12 September 2010

Adam: Checking in.

Esu: Good evening, Adam.

Well, I have news, such as it is. It dismays me to say that very few of the People are awakening. We had hoped for many more.

At this point we are not certain that any public announcements or actions would be met with anything better than suspicion or even panic. (Adam: I get the impression here that doesn't necessarily mean there won't be any, just that there aren't high hopes for their effectiveness.) The dark ones have done their jobs well.

Natural disasters will be allowed to occur because they must. Evacuations will be scaled back to include only aware ground crew and maybe a few others. Stasis will still occur during which we will smooth the way as much as we can because we do not want Terrestrial life to be wiped away.

The dark presence on Earth is to be eradicated utterly. Their time has expired and then some. This has not changed.

Those who remain with the Earth will still be assisted and helped to find a natural and spiritually-aligned way of life. Little has changed on this plan except the numbers expected to be involved. Many Terrestrial souls will still be moved to other worlds where they may grow and prosper. We see now that purging the damage to these souls caused by the dark ones may be more challenging than we had hoped, but it can and will be done.

These realizations will not delay plans, though; perhaps the opposite. Changes to magnetic and physical axes of the planet may be more severe, however and there may be fewer remnants of the old civilizations left. Stasis may last longer than previously planned and astral-level cleansing must be done even more carefully than previously planned.

Regardless, the Earth will return to a pristine state as she rises in frequency and her remaining inhabitants will partner with her to recreate her as a jewel of the cosmos that she was meant to be.

There will still be many people and many visitors after a period of adjustment, and the restoration of the other planets in your Solar system will continue as well.

I inform you of this in the interest of disclosure, not wishing to appear to keep secrets needlessly. From your current perspective there will probably be little visible difference in the way things unfold, however.

We are preparing for the final sequence of events now and our projections suggest almost no time left before progressively greater upheavals shake your entire world.

I leave you for now, and make way for Christ Michael. Good night, Adam.

Christ Michael: Greetings!

Esu has informed you of a development that he finds terribly disappointing. But this could be no different than what it is and in the end this serves My will and the will of Source. Know that if even one Ascending Son of Earth was upheld by the Sorting, then this experiment could not be considered a failure; but there are many more than that!

I rejoice in the successful completion of this foray into the exploration what could be, and I invite the People of your world to do so as well.

I have pride in those of you who have persevered through these incredibly difficult times and my thanks go to each and every one of you. This includes those who have been unable to sustain their faith! All those who have played their parts are exalted, regardless of the natures of their contributions.

All of existence has been greatly enriched by what has occurred. Those representatives of other realms who have come to observe or participate shall carry unique and valuable energies forward with them, insuring that it is not only My creation that shall be forever enhanced.

But do not take these words to mean that the adventure is over! This transition is only a moment between what is and what will be, and what is to come will be even more interesting!

Remember that as we move forward nothing is really lost, only transformed. Trust that unpleasantness will be temporary and that all changes lead toward growth and greater perfection.

My thanks to you all.

Source has decreed the end of the experiment

Esu through Adam
4 October 2010

Adam: Checking in. I have been sick for several days and feeling untethered, but I'm here now if there is any message.

Esu: You are still a bit "untethered" but that shouldn't be a problem. Good evening, Adam.

You have read my message through a colleague of yours and I will confirm to you that it was correctly received. The dark ones have overplayed their hands and they will be summarily removed very soon. Though the public has not really awakened in the ways that we had hoped, there may be some lessons here that could be of value. Either way, time is short for all aspects of the old ways, socio-political, geological and spiritual.

You have perceived the wildly fluctuating energies, the intense changes in the way things are, on almost a daily basis – and incredibly you are all but used to it!

Your bodies and conscious minds are not really designed to stand up to these stresses, and one only as to monitor some of your news reports to see the repercussions. Still, most people persevere and go about their lives, battered and shaken though they may be, because there seems to be no real choice. We truly marvel at this! We begin to think some of you could nap on a roller coaster if you felt the need to do so.

Humanity was not intended to suffer so intensely or to change its environment so completely and quickly. To function in such near-complete separation from Essence was once thought by many to be impossible. In a way, "humanity on a prison world" has exceeded the parameters of the experiment and has been shown to be incredibly resilient and successful.

But – and this is a very significant qualifier – this success has been of a very twisted and dark sort. This success does not move toward the common good or toward a positive goal even for itself. Thriving in the dark leads to an unsupportable future, sowing the seeds of destruction within its own foundations. It is analogous to a cancer that runs rampant until it destroys its host, leaving itself also destroyed in the end.

This is the outcome of the Luciferian Rebellion; infinity becomes finite, harmony becomes discord, the dark overtakes the light, and death snuffs out life. This is the awakening that must eventually come to all of Creation: there can be nothing lasting that is separate from Spirit. There can be no existence that is not one with All That Is. Perfection and sustainability cannot arise from that which is imperfect and finite.

This is the “sin” of pride and its inevitable outcome.

Throughout all of existence the end results of the Rebellion are being cleaned up and the remaining aspects of the experiment closed down. Earth is not the only place that is being cleansed, you can be sure; though this world has been a featured player in the drama.

Source has decreed the end of the experiment and that all those beings and entities who wish it may have salvation; that all who ask will be granted grace and mercy. In this manner the experiences and motivations and energies of the Rebellion may remain a part of Source, an eternal reminder and lesson of the results of the “sin of pride,” that this drama need not be repeated.

Salvation may be had for the asking, though understanding and penance may require more work and dedication for some. Those beings who stubbornly refused the Light may find their road back to be long and hard, but this too is their choice! Understand that which lies before them is not a punishment but necessary preparation to rejoin the Light. Any dark on who calls to the Light in true humility and understanding may return to it instantly! The long term ahead in void and darkness, stripped of distractions and petty pleasures is a result of stubborn refusal to move back to harmony. For some it will be that long, hard road. For a few it may be comparatively nothing at all.

Source does not wish to inflict further suffering; we create our own suffering and this is especially true in the spiritual, non-physical realms.

Those servants of the dark who read these words should consider them carefully. Those who do not serve the dark should do likewise.

Good night.

Store up these days in your memory

Message from CM through Adam

6 December 2010

Adam: Checking in.

CM: Good evening, Adam.

Things are happening, as you know. It will take a little time to finish this task, but not long at all, really. Though it seems there have been delays from your point of view it is not really so. This operation will be important to have accomplished in the short-term and that will be evident after the mini-stasis and at announcement time.

What happens next will be sudden and yet subtle. There will be peace and calm. Worry no more, for the time is short and the path between here and there is smooth, stones and pebbles having been removed or about to be removed.

The power of the darkest ones has been broken, with only remnants remaining, operating on well-worn tracks, powered by habit. Do you feel the absence of oppression, the near-dawning of the Light? Oh yes, there is work yet to be done; a lot of work! But you will not have to fight every step of the way. You will no longer be dodging bullets all the while rolling boulders uphill, for the ground is leveling. In moments you will have momentum working with you instead of inertia bogging you down.

Your patience is very close to being rewarded. Pay close attention in these days and store up this experience in your memory, for you will wish to examine it all later at your leisure and marvel at it!

Your time in bondage is coming to a final end, never to be seen again. Savor these last moments as you watch the Light dawn on the New World.

Good night.

Clarification of Energy process.

By CM thru Adam

Oct 7, 2012

Adam: Is there a message?

CM Aton: Yes. Good evening, Adam.

Light workers are clamoring for an "update." I am here to tell you that the new phase of The Project, as you think of it, is already underway. There is a lack of understanding about what is happening and that is regrettable.

The energy bombarding your world has changed permanently and that is an important step. This energy will clear the way for important and dramatic changes that must occur. There will soon be a tipping point that will allow physical manifestations that will be recognizable and unmistakable.

This process has begun. We are not waiting for concessions or any sort of actions from the dark ones. We are moving over them. They have ceased to matter.

Let it be known that we are in the beginning of The Harvest phase right now. The true natures of all people will be revealed to themselves and to Us and The Sorting will begin. Each will know instinctively his or her place and path and will move in that direction without fail. It cannot be otherwise.

Some of you have begun to notice the beginnings of this. Continue to watch and clarity will follow.

That is all for now.
